

2006 Margaret River Vintage Report

Not a great year. The coldest December on record followed by the coolest summer in 45 years resulted in a protracted growing season. Intermittent rainfall proved beneficial to start off with, but March rains hampered the harvest. Although problematic for reds the vintage was not so bad for chardonnay.